THE STOKES-FISK TRAGEDY.

Another Exciting Day of Legal Skirmishing.

THE OLD FABIAN STRATEGY PRACTISED

Empanelling a Petit Jury to Pass Upon the Legality of the Action of a Grand Jury.

APPEARANCE OF THE PRISONER.

Yesterday being the day fixed upon by Judge Cardozo, presiding in the Court of Oyer and Termimer, for the empanelling of a petit jury to try the seventh demurrer raised by Stokes counsel as to the constitutionality of the empanelling and swear-ing in of the Grand Jury who indicted Edward S. Grand Central Hotel, in this city, on the 7th day of January last, was a most exciting one for prisoner, ounsel, press reporters and the large number of spectators who managed to secure an entrance into the court room. On the previous day of the sitting of the Court prisoner's counsei interposed seven demurrers to the indictment. Six of these were altogether technical, and were everruled by the Court. The seventh demurrer embraced a question of fact which the Court at the time said should be passed upon by a petit jury to be selected from the panel summoned to try the in-dictment for murder, should the Grand Jury be sus-tained. In the meantime 500 petit jurors and fifty grand jurors were summoned to appear yesterday, and consequently the court room was more crowded than on any of the previous days that Stokes has been brought up. But, independent of this, attaching to the murder of Colonel Fisk and the trial of the man accused thereof appears—despite the Fabian legal policy of the defending counsel, rather to be on the increase than showing any signs of abatement. Taroughout the whole session the broad staircase leading to the court rooms, the wide space fronting the doors, and, indeed, away back to the expansive rotunda were crowded by hundreds of people, anxious to get a glimpse of the aren culprit on his way to and from the Court, and to learn whatever patch of news some tired listener within would bring to the outside as he sought the fresh air for relief from the over-crowded and overheated room inside.

THE PRISONER. At half-past ten o'clock the prisoner Stokes, closely guarded as usual by a strong posse of deputy sheriffs, with Sheriff Brennan by his side, was brought into the court room and at once took his lately accustomed place near alls numerous counsel. How terrible a seat it is to him, and what a terrible ordeal he has had to go through while he occupied it day after day from his first appearance in court to be put upon trial for his life up to the present, and what other days of agony he will have to endure before he icaves it for the last time it would not be diment to imagine. As he appeared yesterday it was easily observable that he is very much shaken in herve, and that, in fact, nothing but the assurances of his counsel or his own hopes to that end that the day is yet distant when he shall have finally to put himself "upon God and his country" lends him courage to go through the thorny path chosen for himself in the very strengh and neyday of his life. There is, when not communing with counsel or exchanging a few words with a triend, a restlessness in his eye and an occasional twitching of the muscles of the face that betokens an inward consciousness of the perils of his position, the effect of the retrospect of the course of hie which led to it and which each meter the course of hie which led to it and which was cressed with his usual taste and bore himself with outward ease, paying deep attention, however, to the questioning of the jurors and the arguments of counsel on all the points raised for and against the acceptance of each juror.

PRELIMINARY PROCEEDINGS.

Judge Cardozo, District Attorney Garvin and the prisoner's counsel all entered the court room about the same time, and immediately on the Judge's address to them will be found in the regular law reports in another column.

Sweaking in of the Grand Jury and the Judge's address to them will be found in the regular in or a peat jury to try a grand jury.

SWEARING THE JURY.

William B. Ogden was then sworn by Mr. Sparks to answer all questions "touching your competency to act as an impartial juror," &c.

Mr. Gerry objected that the proper form of oath was as decided in the case of the People vs. Freeman "whether you are in-inferent between the people and the prisoner at the bar,"

Judge Cardozo ordered that he be so sworn, and he was sworn accordingly.

Counsel said he believed the proper form on a challenge or principal cause was the first form.

Judge Cardozo—I will have him sworn any way you choose.

You choose.
The juror being resworn as at first, he was asked by Mr. Gerry whether he had formed or expressed by Mr. Gerry whether he had formed or expressed any opinion as to the prisoner's guilt, or as to whether the Grand Jury who holicted the prisoner were properly drawn, and whether the list of said jurors was properly signed and flied within the time prescribed by law, &c., to all of which he an-swered that he had no opinion or knowledge of the matter.

time prescribed by May, Act, to all of which he and swered that he had no opinion or knowledge of the matter.

The challenge for principal cause was withdrawn, and he was challenged "for favor" and sworn as to whether he was "induferent between the people of the State of New York and Edward S. Stokes, the prisoner at the bar."

Mr. Van Ness and Mr. Samuel C. Reed, called as triers by His Honor, were objected to and excused. Mr. James T. Malcom and Mr. George W. Parsons were then sworn as triers.

In reply to Mr. McKeop, the juror answered that he knew none of the Grand Jury who indicted Stokes, and that he was insinferent between the people and the prisoner; is sligntly acquainted with Mr. Frime, one of the Grand Jurors.

Ar. McKeon windrew the objections to the juror, and he was sworn to well and truly inquire between the people of the State of New York and Edward Stokes, prisoner at the bar, upon the issue joined upon the plea of the state of New York and Edward Stokes, prisoner at the bar, upon the issue joined upon the plea of the state of New York and Edward Stokes, prisoner at the bar, upon the issue joined upon the plea of the state of New York and Edward Stokes, prisoner at the bar, upon the issue joined upon the plea of the state of New York and Edward Stokes, prisoner at the bar, upon the issue joined upon the plea of the state of New York and Edward Stokes, prisoner at the bar, upon the issue joined upon the plea of the state of New York and Edward Stokes, prisoner at the bar, upon the issue joined upon the plea of the state of New York and the state of New York and the prisoner and the people, though he had no prejudices against the jurore.

This raised the important question as to whether Pullip Smith and said fie was not impartial between the prisoner and the people, though he had no prejudices against the jurors.

This raised the important question as to whether the prejudice of the juror on the main issue of guilty or not guilty was sufficient to exclude him from the trial of the Grand Jury and the Grand Jury list. Prisoner's counsel claimed that their plea was that tols Grand Jury was neither more nor less than a mob. Now, any one who had such a strong prejudice against the prisoner as to behave that he ought to be hanged without law was not in a fit frame of mind to decide whether this Grand Jury was or was not a least body or a mob.

The Court charged the triers as follows:—'The question that you are to try is whether Mr. Smith stands indifferent between the prisoner and the people, so that he may act as an impartial pror to try the issue which it is proposed to shount to them, and which you have already heard stated. Although that is the issue the law says that on a challenge to the favor everything that may tend to bias his mind may be received as competent evidence to receive at the hands of the triers, for them to give such weight to as they think it raily enduced to, to enable them to defermine the competency of the juror. There is no rule of law which lays down with any precision what in their judgment shall be deemed a disquarization. It is a matter resting entirely in their good scase and judgment."

Mr. Smith was then rejected.

ment shall be deemed a disquantication. It is a matter resting entirely in their good sease and judgment."

Mr. Smith was then rejected.

Joan Waish, sworn, was asked the same questions as the first witness, whether he formed any opinion as to whether the list of Grand Jurors who indicated the prisoner were grawn from a box in the usual way; whether they were properly selected by the Commissioners, and the list filed within fifteen days; whither their names and residences were given in said itst, and wather they were men of intelligence and character.

The jaror knew nothing about it, but admitted a prejudice against the prisoner. Rejected.

Denis Burke, excused on account of fil nearth.

John Turner was next sworn.

The point for this defence.

Prisoner's counsel informed the juror that in 1853 a law was passed appointing certain Judges and the Mayor of the city a Board to select grand jurors for each year; and that it was claimed on benaif of the prisoner that said Board in September last did not make the selection as required by law; that two lists were presented by the Commissioner of Jurors, one of competent and the other of incompetent ones; that four of the Board form a quorum, and three should agree on each juror; that one of the Board, without the knowledge of the rest, made up the so-called list of grand jurors out of petty jurors, some competent and some incompetent, and in this way the Grand Jury for the year commencing september last was not selected according to law.

The witness knew nothing about these matters, but had formed an opinion as to the prisoner's guilt Rejected.

but had formed an opinion as to the prisoner's guilt. Rejected.

George C. Huntington, secretary; perjectly indifferent on the issue; sworn, thus making the second of the jury. Up to this point the proceedings occupied an hour.

Chandler Robbins, a merchant on Front street, challenged and challenge withdrawn. He was sworn.

Hiram H. Chapin, importer, 75 Wall street, had expressed an opinion as to Stokes' guilt.

Counsel again informed the triers that counsel for prisoner regarded the indicting Grand Jury as a mob—a body not legality organized—and asked them to consider whether Mr. Chapin was competent to be an impartial juror. He asked the Court to charge the triers that the witness should be not only indifferent on the issue, but that an active and thorough impartiality between the parties was required.

thorough impartianty between the parties quired.

His Honor charged accordingly.

Juror rejected.

Sylvester Brush, furrier: challenge for principal cause withdrawn, and challenged for favor. Has no bias against the prisoner, but is in favor of the prosecution. Rejected.

George W. Nicholson, retailer of boots and shoes, Eighth avenue. Sworn.

Ciement Herrdt, importer, has formed an opinion in reference to the homicide, but thinks he could give an impartial vertict, but he has a prejudice against Stokes, arising out of what he read in the papers.

Counsel, producing a small volume, said his friend Mr. Gerry tent him a book the other day, and he couldn't stop until he drank in every word of it. It was printed in England in 1682, and was entitled "The Security of Englishmen's Lives, or the Trust, Power and Duty of the Grand Juries of England Explained According to the Fundamentals of the English Government and the bectarations of the Same Embodied in Many Statutes of Parliament." In that book he found the passage, which is thus translated from the original of Juvenal, "No delay is to be esteemed long when the life of a man is in quesilon." He begged the attention of the press to another passage, "Punishment of offender a little deferred may be compensated by severity on the sentenced; but blood rashiv sphied cannot be gathered up and the land polluted by it is hardly cleansed. Wise and good men, in a matter of this kind, have ever proceeded with great caution, while the swit of foot are in the Scriptures represented under an hi character."

The juror was rejected.

John Herman Witking called and acknowledged he felt a partiality and an impression in the case. Rejected.

Whilam Foot, prejudiced in favor of the prosecution. Rejected.

The Court then took a recess for twenty minutes, papers.
Counsel, producing a small volume, said his friend

William Foot, prejudiced in favor of the prosecution. Rejected.

The Court then took a recess for twenty minutes, at twenty minutes past one, four jurors being sworn and fitteen of the panel yet remaining.

Judge Carrozco cautioned the jurors against speaking to any one about the trial, and said if any one approached them on the subject they should be severely funished.

AFTER THE ADJOURNMENT.

The first juror called was Frank Washington Hunt, dealer in chemicals, who, in reply to Mr. Bartlett, Jr., admitted that he entertained a prejudice against the prisoner. The juror was rejected.

Simon Schloss, mercaunt, 335 East Fiftien street, had formed an opinion on the points at issue. Rejected.

had formed an opinion on the points at issue. Rejected.

Daniel McDonell, 161 Third avenue, was decidedly prejudiced, and had expressed a strong opinion about the muraer. "Stand asards!"

Peter J. Carpenter, coa dealer. Rejected for prejudice by direction of the Court.

Peter Kemp, ice dealer. Has no opinion about the legality of the Grand Jury, has an impression about the homicade, but would decide fairly on the evidence. He was sworn.

Maurice O'Meara, 18 Leroy street. Rejected for prejudice and bias, Samuel S. Altken. Rejected.

John Henry Walker, sworn. Sixth juror secured at halt-past two P. M.

Solomon Brownold, 713 Third avenue. Rejected. James E. Weekes, grocer. Rejected.

Simon Michael, 31s West Thirty-inith street. Sworn.

Simon Michael, 518 West Thirty-ninth street.
Sworn.
George Lisner, 837 Broadway. This witness having acknowledged he formed an opinion on the homicide from reading the papers. Counsel submitted that Mr. Lisner could not try the issue fairly. Up to last Saturcay the press sustained one of the most lawless bodies ever organized—a grand jury kept alone for three or four months merely to indict people politically, and the juror derived his opinions from that press. Juror rejected.

At this singe, only two of the special panel being left, and seven jurors secured, the Court adjourned this half-past ten this morning.

THE MARKET SAVINGS BANK.

Something About Mr. Dennis, the Late Receiver—A Modest Claim—Meeting of the Depositors—The Election To Be Heid.

Bank held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the First District Court room. The meeting was advertised for two o'clock, but in consequence of the ab-sence of several of the committee it was not called to order until half-past two. The chairman called the meeting to order, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The Chairman stated that he had seen some of the depositors who were not aware that the bank was declared an involuntary bankrupt. For their benefit and also for others who might be in blissful ignorance of the same he now mentioned it. He further informed the depositors that Mr. Dennis—who had pledged his solemn word that he would charge nothing for his services as receiver—had presented A CLAIM FOR $2,000 for his services as such for two days. This claim, he said, was presented before Judge Sutherland, and that he (the chairman), in the name of the depositors, had protested. (Applause.) Another proof that Mr. Dennis was dishenest as well as untruth-ful was to be found in the fact that the committee tors, had protested. (Applause.) Another proof that Mr. Dennis was dishenest as well as untruthful was to be found in the fact that the committee had just laid bare a little operation of ms. This 'little game' involved some $23,000. It appears that he obtained several loans from the bank, amounting in the aggregate to the sum above mentioned, and although his name does not appear on the vouchers for the same the committee have proof of his doings. The money obtained in the loans was invested in lands, and for his part of the work Mr. Dennis received a handsome bonus. In concluding his remarks the chairman stated that under the Bankruptcy laws the depositors were allowed thirty days to choose an assignee or trustee, and to go to a registrar in bankruptcy with their bank books to prove the bank's indebtedness to them. Every depositor will have to vote for the assignee or trustee either in person or by proxy. If he cannot come to the meeting to vote he will have to give "power of attorney" to some one else to do so for him. A meeting for the purpose of ELECTING AN ASSIGNEE will be held in about ten days from now, which will be held in about ten days from now, which will be held in about ten days from now, which will be duly advertised. A member of the committee then made a motion that Mr. Hodnett be requested to withdraw from the committee. The member gave as his reasons for making this motion that Mr. Hodnett had been, and was at present, in familiar intercourse with the officials of the bank, and that he boastingly declared himself a friend of Mr. Dennis, and that he further stated that no one could make him believe Mr. Dennis guilty. In response to the mover and the meeting in general Mr. Hodnett defended himself in this wise:—"Gentlemen, if I was now or ever had been a friend of the bank officers I would not have informed the committee how they could come into the possession of nave informed the committee now they could come into the possession of FIFTKEN HORSES BELONGING TO CONKLIN, and might now have the $700 which I lost on the bank becoming bankrupt." A voluntary subscription was taken up to defray expenses of advertising, &c. The meeting then adjourned, and will meet in the early part of next week to go into an election.

THE GUARDIAN SAVINGS BANK-NOT SO BLACK AS PAINTED.

A meeting of the depositors of the Guardian Savings Bank was held yesterday, when the following exhibit of its assets and liabilities was made by Receiver Quintan. It is made up to the 17th November, when the Receiver was put in charge:-

Association ar. Waiter Rouse, late vice Frendent, 200,099 Mr. Quinlan announced that every depositor would be paid in full, and that he only required a little time to realize upon the securities.

The Receiver announced that he is now prepared to pay all depositors of $800 and under, and twenty-five per cent on larger sums. The bank will be kept open until ten o'clock to-night, and every night hereafter until all receives their money, or it is necessary to suspend to convert securities.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS IN PATERSON.

PATERSON, Feb. 10, 1872. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-

In your paper of this date, under the head of "Municipal Robbery in Paterson, N. J.," you say:-"The bills as presented amounted to $3,100, being $1,800 from Mayor Tuttle, $1,800 from Colonel Woodruff, and $50 each from Courtlandt Parker and Chancellor Williamson." I presented no bill to the Council nor to any commutee. My bill for set fees in the matters referred to was paid to me by my clients last August, since which I have had no further knowledge of or interest in the mat-ter.

THE COURTS.

The Jumel Estate Litigation-A Custom House Case-Charge to the Grand Jury in the Court of Oyer and Terminer-A Libel Suit-Liabilities of United States Bonded Warehouse Keepers-Decisions-Business in the General Sessions.

> UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT. The Estate of Mme. Jamel.

Before Judge Shipman. The further hearing of the case of George Washterday.

At the opening of the Court a large amount of documentary evidence was offerred on the part of the defendant, Mr. Chase. An extract from the records of births and marriages of the town of Cumberland was put in. This extract was from page 169 of the records, and showed that William Ballou, son of Reuben Ballou and Freelove, his wife, was born November 26, 1785, and Lavinia Ballou, their daughter, on the 26th of December, 1787. Counsel for de-fendant also offered from the record of marriages of the town of Cumberland the following certifi-

I hereby certify that Major Reuben Ballou and Preciove Whipple were lawfully joined together in marriage at the said town of Cumberland, on the filst day of January, A. D. 1787. JONATHAN CARPENTER, Justice of the Peace. So that from this record it would appear that Major Ballou and Freeiove Ballou, or Whippie, had children before they were united in the bonds of matrimony.

Further records of the town of Cumberland were Further records of the town of Cumberland were placed before the Court, showing that on the 30th day of May, 1794, a special meeting of the Town Council was called, to consider a complaint of Stephen Whipple, Overseer of the Poor, to the effect that Reuben Bailou, his wife and two children were likely to become chargeable to the town. Reuben Bailou, was examined before the Town council on that occasion, with the view of ascertaining where he had his last legal settlement, and the result of his examination was that he had purchased for £90 a treehold at Providence, and that his last legal settlement was at that place. An order was accordingly saled for the removal of Reuben Bailou and his wife, and two children—William, aged about eight years, and Lavina, aged about six years—to Providence.

ingly issued for the removal of Reuben Bailou and his wife, and two children—William, aged about eight years, and Lavina, aged about six years—to Providence.

A record of the town of Providence, dated June 15, 1808, was next put in. It was adecree of the Town Council directing that, compilate having been made before the Council that Reuben and Freelove Batlou and Luthania Leiand were keepers of bawdy nouses, to the great annoyance of the good people of the place, they be forthwith apprehended and dealt with according to law.

Other records, snowing the relations and character of these persons, were also offered in evidence on the part of the defendant.

Mr. Smith Barker was then called to the stand. He was examined by Mr. Charles O'Conor at considerable lemeth. Among other things Mr. Barker testified as follows:—I am attorney and counselloratism, and have been practising law in New York for forty years; I wrote a will for Mme. Jumel: I was intimately acquanted with the Hon. Wm Inglis; I was called upon by Mme. Jumel, with whom I had no personal acquantane, in the latter part of July, I do not now know the year, in reference to the execution of her wil; I have known her before from seein; her; I drew the will; it was executed and signed by two witnesses; I believe I was one o' the witnesses; Mme. to give it to some one, and I think it was Dr. Bourger.

A draft of the will in question was here shown to the witness by Mr. O'Conor. It was marked defendant's exhibit No. 13 and was written on four half sheets of paper. The witness said the draft was all in the handwriting of William Inglis; Madame Jumel was at Mr. Inglis' office several times; three or four times in relation to the will; she was there a number of times; Judge inglis told Madame that he wanted her particularly to give the names of some of her lamily; she brought a memorandum and handed it to him; I cannot now recollect that I became a subscribing witness to the instrument except by seeing my name attached to the paper.

strument except by seeing my name attached to the paper.
Q. Do you know in any way the fact that Madame Jumel signed the will? A. I do not know except from what was said were she lett.
Mr. Netson Chase, the defendant, was briefly examined as to whether he had tound any will in the house of Madame Jumel other than the one which was the subject of Infigation in the Surrogate's Court. He stated that after a search had been made no other will could be Jound.
The Court, after some discussion between the legal gentiemen on both sides, admitted the drafts of the wills in evidence, the plainting excepting.
The drafts were read to the jury, and soon after the Court adjourned till eleven o'clock this morning.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Bedford.

Assistant District Attorney Fellows appeared yesterday in behalf of the people. Shortly after the opening of the Court Mr. Howe moved the postconement of the trial of Charles Moore, the allege ponement of the Court Mr. Howe moved the postponement of the trial of Charles Moore, the alleged emigrant swindler, and also requested that the indictment should be removed to the Oyer and Terminer for trial. His Honor granted the motion.

Charles Reilly, a boy, charged with stealing three diamond rings, on the 7th of January, valued at $200, the property of Katty Angerson, pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny and was remanded for sentence.
Jacob Williams, jointly indicted with George Bramer for burglary in the third degree, pleaded guilty to an attempt to commit that offence.
Judge Besiford, in disposing of the case, said that as the complainant interposed for leniency and the prisoner's antecedents were good he would suspend judgment; but he (Judge Bedford) wished the community to understand that under no circumstances would he fall to punish professional burglars with the utmost severity.

James Flanerty was tried upon a charge of robbing Margaret Kirk on the sth of January of $1,150 by cutting the pocket of her dress. The main witness was the complanant, who was so garrulous and impudent to the counsel for the accused as to cause considerable merriment while she was on the stand.
After nstening to the statement of the transaction by the accused the Judge directed the jury to render a verifiet of not guilty.

George Warnig, charged with stening $120 worth of wearing apparel from the house of Peter Deisch, 85 Greenwich street, on the 15th of January, was tried and acquitted.

A INDSEV RAILROAD MYSTERY.

Strange Conduct of a Passenger-He Suddealy Disappears and is Found Mangled on the Cowcatcher.

A Coroner's inquest was held yesterday at Trenton, though without any satisfactory result, on the body of an unknown man, who was found on the cowcatcher of the locomotive of the midnight train from New York to Philadelphia, at Trenton day morning. One of his arms was cut off and the body presented a frightful sight. The evidence snowed that deceased had come on a train along the Pennsylvania Central Kaliroad, and at West Pulladelphia got on the train Known as the owline, getting a ticket from Mr. Parker, the conductor, in exchange for his Western ticket. When near Frankfort deceased engaged in a quarrel with a man who was going to fail River, Mass, and they bit each other savagely about the face and neck. The conductor took deceased into the barrage car and told him if he was not quiet that ne would be tied. Shortly after deceased went again into the car and renewed the fight. Pistols were drawn, but quiet was again restored. At Trenton, where the owl train from Philadelphia was delayed a short time, a company of roughs left the train, but the Massachussetts man remained. Deceased spoxe to a brakeman, and about four miles from Trenton was missed by the conductor. At Princeton Junction the owl train from New York and the owl train from Philadelphia was told to go slowly when reaching Trenton and keep a sharp lookout. About two miles from Trenton he snackened up to the speed of about six miles an hour, and when he got to the depot tound deceased jammed in the cowcatcher. The deceased was about twenty years of age, and had no letters nor papers to lead to identification. Soon as davlight came parties from the depot went up the line and found the torn ciothes, a boot, and a purse that contained six $5 notes. There appears to be little hopes of recognition. and the body presented a frightful sight.

A strong opposition is being made by gentlemen interested in Hudson River traffic against the passage of a proposed act through the Legislature, permitting the construction of piers and abutments in the channel of the stream. Over six hundred persons have already signed a protest, and yester-day the following resolutions were passed by the Produce Exchange:—

Produce Exchange:—

Whereas there is now pending before the Legislature of this State a wit to amend an act entitled "An act to incorporate the Poughteepste Bradge Company," passed May 10, 1871; and whereas the said attempted amendment authorizes the construction of piers and abutments in the channel of the Husson siver; and whereas the construction of said piers and abutments would materially interiere with the free navigation of said river, diminish the commerce thereof, affect the growth and prosperity of the cities and towns along its banks, increase the risas of river navigation and 6e permanently detrimental to the interests of the West and this city; therefore nently detrimental to the interests of the West and this city; therefore, Resolved. That we, the Board of Managers of the Produce Exchange of the city of New York are deeply interested in the freedom of the navigation of the Hudson River, and in view of the facts above set torth and many others that might be specified, do carnestly protest against the passage of said amendment to said act, and request our Senators and Representatives in the Legis ature to vote against the said amendment, as seriously damaging and of permanent injury to the business interests of this city.

Resolved, That the Secretary be requested to forward a copy of these resolutions, signed by the President and Secretary of the Hoard, to each of our Senators and Kepresentatives in the Legislature of this State.

James Mobridge, Secretary.

WEOLESALE BURGLARIES. More Policemen Wanted Up Town.

Mr. Jonathan Andrews' house, No. 137 East 109th street, was entered early on Thursday morning by burgiars and robbed of $400 worth of household goods, including $135 in money. The same house was entered about four weeks ago and several hun-dred dollars' worth of property packed up to redred dollars' worth of property packed up to remove, but the robbers became alarmed and decamped without their plunder. Two other houses on the same block have been entered the last week and robbed of large quantities of wearing apparel. Several houses in loin street, between Second and Third avenues, have also been entered the last month, and not one arrost of a thief has been made, or any of the property recovered. The residents in that vicinity are talking about arming themselves, and retire at hight with the dread of being robbed before dawn, as mere are only two policemen to protect the inhabitants living in ninety city blocks, extending from Ninety-second street to 110th street, Fifth avenue to the East River.

A DRUNKEN DISASTER

Patrick Sheridan, of Dutch Kills, L. I., fell down the embankment at Forty-second street and First avenue yesterday while under the influence of liquor. He was found lying in a pool of siush by a policeman, in an almost dying condition, and taken to the Twenty-flast precinct station house, whence he was removed to Believue Hospital.

TROTTING ON THE ICE.

A trotting meeting took place at Whitehall, Wash ington county, N. Y., on the 7th and 8th inst. The people of that snow-bound region, feeling in a sportive mood, offered several purses for different grades of speed, to be trotted for on the ice of Lake Champlain. Only two purses, however, filled-viz., the three minute and the free for all.

The first trot was for a purse of $150, for horses that had never beaten three minutes, mile heats. best three in five, to skeleton sleighs. Gray horse Highlander, bay mare Hornet, sorrel gelding Sorrel Tom and black gelding Black Prince were entered and started for the purse. The race was closely contested, and was won by Highlander after five contested, and was won by Highlander after five heats had been trotted. The horse Elack Prince, owned by Mr. Henry Hall, of Whitehall, is a very fast animal, but had no enance in the race, having been shod too smooth for work on the ice.

The second trot was for a purse of $290, free for all horses, mile heats, best three in five, to skeleton sleighs. Gray gelding Bolly Lewis, orown mare Lydia, gray horse Joe Brown, sorrel horse J. J. Rich and bay mare Nelly Webster were the contestants. All of the horses, however, were withdrawn, except Bolly Lewis and Lydia, the owners of the others thinking, probably, that their horses would have no chance of winning should they contend against such fivers as Bolly and Lydia.

Five tracks were scraped on the ice at a place called "On the Bay," and each contestant had exclusive right of way to the track he or size was started on. The weather was delightful and a large crowd witnessed the sport. Bolly Lewis beat Lydia in three straight heats. Bolly is owned by Mr. Weeks, of Harlem, and was driven by Mr. M. W. Olcott, of New York. This horse was sired by Priot, Jr., and has a great turn of speed.

The rollowing are the summaries of the two days' trotting:—

On Saturday last the Eighth avenue road was quite good in places for speeding, and advantage vas taken of it by many roadmen, who embraced the opportunity to shake up their trotters a bit. Onite a trial of speed took place between the gray mare Stella, driven by G. Hopkins; R. Taggart' chestnut stallion, and R. J. Anderson's fast little mare Birdie. The mare Stella showed the most foot and came out the winner, but it was a merry rattle, and all hands seemed pleased with the excitement

Henry Casey, with a black mare, and Thomas Trimble, with Brown Rover, had a neighborly trot, which made a very pretty race. Mr. A. E. Noble, with his gray horse, took the honors for heavy weights.

Mr. Robert Bonner drove his fast four-year-old colt Startle to a top wagon on Saturday afternoon, and the beauty showed a 2:30 clip going by the Club House. This colt, when he gets age, must take the front rank among the trotters.

Mr. Albert Lee owns two very promising young horses, which he uses for road purposes—one a Hambletonian and me other by General Knox.
